

Kent Film Festival

The Kent Film Festival started in 1974 the idea of Eric Charlesworth who died in 2004.

Originally held in a church hall in Chatham it grew until a new venue needed to be found. With the help of Les Holtum, of the Canterbury Cine Club, the Festival moved to its present location.

The Festival is now chaired by Peter Hughes who was with Eric Charlesworth in 1974.

Christ Church University, Powell Theatre, Canterbury. CT1 1QU.
